U.N.O. GETS SOVIET DEMAND

No Early Break In Steel Strike Yet Indicated

More Dependent Industries Being Affected As Strike Enters 12th Day

DEVELOPMENTS ARE BEING AWAITED

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—No early break in the deadlock nationwide strike of 700,000 steel workers was envisioned today as the chiefly interested party shadow-boxed with the issues.

Although President Truman in Washington said the labor-management picture was brighter, businessmen in the steel areas were not displaying undue optimism.

As the strike dragged on into its 12th day, business continued to falter, more men in dependent industries were being off and the peril to the nation's economy increased.

The Ford Motor Company, for example, announced that its Edgewater, N. J., assembly plant and another at Chester, Pa., would close tonight because of the steel shortage occasioned by the strike.

More than 1,500 employes at the Edgewate plant alone will be thrown out of work as a result.

Rejects Ford's Suggestion

Dispatches from Washington said Mr. Truman rejected the suggestion of Henry Ford II that price controls in certain industries such as automobile manufacturing be shorn away to allow settlement of wage disputes and get big-time production going.

Mr. Truman's attitude was that one could not follow Ford's suggestion without provoking wild inflation.

CIO President Philip Murray, who is in Washington, has taken the position that the steel workers union has done all it can and that settlement of the dispute is "now up to the president."

Murray has agreed to accept Mr.

'Full Employment' Bill Being Greatly Modified

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—President Truman appeared today to be headed for another set-back in Congress—this time over the question of so-called "full employment" legislation.

Sharply divergent versions of the bill have been adopted by the Senate and House. The matter now is in joint conference for reconciliation.

The chief executive has spoken out sharply for the Senate version of the bill, which, he has contended in his annual message and in letters to senators, more nearly approaches the program he wants.

But, reliable reports indicate that the Senate and House conferees are

New Labor Bill Being Readied

Compromise Labor Bill Being Prepared For Submission To House

ANTI-STRIKE DEBATE ENTERS SECOND DAY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—A compromise labor bill embodying features of the Senate McMahon measure was being readied today for submission to the House.

This was disclosed as debate on anti-strike legislation entered its second day.

Rep. Dirksen (R) Ill., sponsor of the new bill, said he hoped it would receive the support of those who opposed both the President's fact-finding proposal and the more stringent Case anti-strike measure.

Will Offer Bill Monday

Dirksen said he would offer his bill Monday, when voting begins, as a substitute for the Case measure which, in turn, is a substitute for the President's bill. He declared:

"I plan to offer this Monday in the hope that it will take off some of the heat engendered by the Case bill and permit constructive action by the House."

Dirksen said his measure authorizes the President to appoint "boards of inquiry" to delve into labor disputes, a provision similar to that in the McMahon bill. Unlike the Senate measure, however, the Dirksen bill would not empower the boards to subpoena records.

Can't Compel Man To Work

Dirksen added that his bill did not provide a 30-day non-strike "cooling off" period pending board deliberations, a provision contained in both the President's bill and in

Some Improvement In Supply Of Meat

Some slight improvement in the supply of meat from the Armour and Cudahy packing houses was seen here today. The improvement is not enough to warrant over optimism in the next few days but there is improvement.

Some meat from Pittsburgh sources has been received here, but almost all of it was pork. Beef and lamb from the western cities is not yet available to the local packing houses but is expected perhaps early next week.

In the meantime local slaughterers have continued to supply a lot of meat locally and through their effort no dire shortage was seen here even during the strikebound days.

Seven Injured In Unusual Accident

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS)—Seven persons were injured today when an automobile upset and a second car plowed into the people who were trying to help the injured from the first car.

Michael Jordan, 24, car struck a pole and overturned. Nearby residents, who were extricating the injured from the overturned automobile, were struck by a car driven by James Hunter, 21, police reported.

All the injured lived in Connellsville.

BEDFORD, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS)—The Bedford County coroner's office today reported that seven-weeks-old Sally Jane Hillegass, of nearby Manns Choice, was smothered to death as she slept in a bed with four other persons.

Coroner Virgil Giesel said the death occurred when one of the other four rolled on the child.

Admiral Smith Testifies Again

Tells Probers That If U. S. Fleet Had Been On West Coast Japs Would HaveTaken Oahu

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Adm. W. W. Smith told the Pearl Harbor committee today that if the Pacific fleet had been based on the west coast in 1941 the Japs would have taken the Hawaiian island of Oahu in an amphibious operation.

"It is my opinion they could have done it," the chief of staff of Adm. Husband E. Kimmel, Pacific fleet commander, testified.

Smith was recalled for questioning before the committee took up its key witness on the "winds code controversy"—Capt. L. F. Safford, naval communications security officer in 1941.

Kimmel's former deputy said it is "ridiculous" to believe that a large enemy force could have approached San Pedro, Calif., without detection.

Would Have Taken Oahu

He said:

"I do not believe any intelligent enemy would attack the west coast

Rumors Bowles May Quit O.P.A.

(BULLETIN)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The White House refused to confirm or deny reports today that Chester Bowles would resign as head of the office of price administration.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross was asked to comment on recurring rumors that Bowles was going to quit.

He replied:

"All I know is that Mr. Bowles will see the president tomorrow."

Bowles has been in Florida for a brief rest and it was reported that he is returning to Washington sooner than originally planned.

The price chief has been reported to be in disagreement on some of the administration's "hold the line" policies.

Senate Filibuster In Twelfth Day

Supporters Of F.E.P.C. May Give Up Fight If Filibuster Is Not Broken Next Week

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Supporters of the fair employment practices act prepared today to give up their fight temporarily if they fail to muster enough votes to silence the "journal" filibuster of southern senators next week.

Sen. Chavez (D) N. M., leader of the FEPC proponents, said that if cloture fails his group will make way for the minimum wage bill, expected to reach the floor by the middle of the week.

At the same time, Chavez forecast that the margin of cloture—which takes a two-thirds majority—is so thin that "we will win or lose by only a vote or two."

Sen. O'Daniel (D) Tex., held the floor to resume his attack on FEPC as the filibuster dragged into its twelfth day. He said:

"The philosophy of this bill is purely communistic. I wouldn't be surprised if it came from Moscow to try to overthrow our American form of government."

Plane Disaster Scene Is Atop High Mountain

Rescuing Parties Face Many Handicaps In Attempt To Reach Wreckage

FEAR 21 PERSONS VICTIMS IN CRASH

ELK MOUNTAIN, Wyo., Feb. 1.—(INS)—Ski-equipped rescue parties hoped for a break in the weather today as they sought to scale 11,125 foot Elk mountain where the wreckage of a United airliner and the bodies of it 18 passengers and crew of three are believed buried in deep snow.

Rescuers fought zero weather, snow and winds that reached 125 miles per hour. Four of the searching party, turned back last night by bitter cold and blizzards, suffered frozen faces.

Crash on Peak

The Seattle-to-New York plane was believed to have crashed atop the isolated peak, 65 miles northwest of Laramie, about 2:50 a. m. yesterday. At that time, another pilot reported sighting a fire on the mountain top.

Sheriff Glenn Penland of Rawlins led the civilian rescue squads from the base at the little hamlet of Elk Mountain located in the shadow of the two-mile high peak of the same name. He said the search would be halted until the wreckage is sighted by planes or until the blizzard subsides.

Disaster Scene Spotted

First clue that the airliner crashed on Elk mountain came after an United Airlines search plane spotted a wide-strip torn in the snow at the 11,000-foot level of the peak.

The strip extended for nearly a half-mile, indicating the plane may have skidded a considerable dis-

Green Is Happy Over Labor Plan

Forecasts Return To A. F. Of L. Of Several Unions That Have Been With C. I. O.

MIAMI, Feb. 1.—(INS)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, today proclaimed himself the happiest man in Miami. His pet plan for labor, in his opinion, was half realized.

Green campaigned for years to unify working men under banners of the AFL.

The ruddy faced, one-time coal miner, former Ohio legislator and long-time spokesman for labor, expressed the opinion that return of John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers to the AFL is a long step in the right direction.

Green listed the prodigal comeback of Lewis, who bolted the AFL 10 year ago to help start the rival Congress of Industrial Organizations, as the most significant accomplishment of the mid-winter meeting of the AFL executive council.

Green also was happy to announce that the council had paved the way for the 50,000 members of the brewery workers' union to return to the AFL.

He said that, in addition, informal negotiations are underway to bring back at least three other unions that have fallen to the CIO.

Explosion Foiled By Alert Guards

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS)—How New York was saved in March, 1944, from an explosion 20 times as powerful as the Black Tom blast of World War I was revealed today by Col. Benjamin C. Jones, former chief of the port of embarkation's security division.

Jones said guards discovered a 500-pound German bomb in the water which if detonated would have blown up enormous quantities of ammunition stored at Caven Point in Jersey City.

Jones said there is still no explanation as to how the bomb got there.

World Capitol Site Seekers To Fly To London

U. N. O. Site Committee Has Hectic Time During Final Week In U. S.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The UNO "world capitol" inspection group will fly back to London tomorrow night glad to escape the flood of complaints and new site offers still pouring in.

Thousands of letters, telephone calls and hundreds of visitors have made the last week of the site-seeing tour pretty hectic.

While Williamsburg, Va., and Asbury Park, N. J., were proposing themselves as sites, other towns were issuing "we don't want it" communiques.

Toured Wrong Area

Mayor Daniel E. McLean of Beverly, Mass., said the committee toured the wrong 54 square miles when it visited the Massachusets north shore. He said his committee's proposal was entirely different.

Stoyan Gavrilovic, chairman of the visiting delegation, refused to answer a charge by Mayor Clyde Potts of Morristown, N. J., that it was in the bag for Hyde Park, N. Y., all the time. Potts said his city was treated "shabbily" when the UNO group failed even to visit it.

Gov. M. Q. Sharpe of South Dakota added "steaks three inches thick" to the advantages which the black hills have to offer.

Dispute At Hyde Park

In Hyde Park, a dispute was raging whether the delegates were shown more land than the local committee was empowered to offer. The controversy seemed to hinge on whether the boundaries on a map were arbitrary or official.

Supervisor James D. Hopkins of Northcastle, N. Y., charged that a UNO engineer had enlarged the Stamford-Greenwich site to 142 square miles, including a fourth of Westchester County.

Launch Boom For Farmer Candidate

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(INS)—A boom for Senate Majority Leader Weldon B. Heyburn for the Republican gubernatorial candidacy was launched today by what were described as "leading farmers" in Columbia County.

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS)—The Crawford county coroner's office today reported that Lee R. Ackley, 54, beat Bessie Beal, 55, to death and then committed suicide.

Ackley left a note to Ralph Buck of Franklin in which he directed Buck to use the money he had in a Meadville bank for burial expense.

Death Sentence For Jap General

Penalty Decreed For Murder Of Three American War Prisoners

MANILA, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Japanese Lieut. Gen. Hikotaro Tajima was sentenced to death today by an American military tribunal which found him guilty of murdering three American war prisoners.

The three Americans were downed aviators who were captured and slain on Bataan island north of Luzon in May 1944.

Nine other Japanese received sentences ranging from five to 30 years imprisonment for their involvement in the killings.

ABOARD THE U.S.S. PRINZ EUGEN, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The U.S.S. Cruiser Prinz Eugen, one-time pride of Germany's hit-run navy, leaves Boston harbor for important firing problems today more than 24 hours behind schedule.

The Eugen, run by a German crew under U. S. Navy supervision, twice was held back by fog and rain from her start to the Narragansett bay range.

As the schedule stood, the 18,600-ton ship was slated to complete firing and ordnance tests on her 8-inch and 4.7-inch guns Saturday and to pull into Philadelphia Sunday afternoon. She'll be a test target for the atomic bomb in the Marshall Islands next May.

Issues Injunction Against Picketing

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Judge Harry A. Rowand today issued a preliminary injunction, stopping mass picketing at the Continental Can Company plant in McKees Rocks.

The company charged it is not strikebound, has no contract with the CIO but that steelworkers' pickets had been keeping 500 workers out of the plant.

The pickets, the company charged, were from the Pressed Steel Car Company plant, a short distance away.

U. S. Is Seeking Free Elections In Two Countries

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The United States was committed today to a bitter diplomatic fight to assure free elections in two widely separated countries—Argentina and Poland.

In Argentina the policy was inspired by outspoken opposition to the current totalitarian regime controlled by Col. Juan Peron. The basic question was the maintenance of Pan-American political solidarity.

In Poland, the stake was the United States agreement to support a democratically established government. This agreement was made only after a long struggle to effect a compromise between Moscow and the London war-time government-in-exile of Poland.

The conflict involved fundamental differences between Washington and Moscow and was settled only after revision of the Moscow-formed Warsaw government.

General Homma's Defense Refuted

By PAT ROBINSON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MANILA, Feb. 1 Testimony at the war crimes trial of Lt. Gen. Masaharu Homma today contradicted the general's defense that he failed to remove prison camp commanders known to be permitting atrocities because he could not remove officers without permission from imperial headquarters at Tokyo.

Lt. Col. Moriya Wada, Homma's military administrator, testified that the Japanese general at one time removed three colonels from his command because they failed to follow his plans.

Homma claims he could not relieve a captain of his command at Camp O'Donnell, where more than 30,000 American and Filipinos died of starvation and maltreatment.

Wada also testified that Homma not only ordered his troops to obtain their food from the Filipino, but he ordered all Manila warehouses sealed, forcing starvation upon the natives and prisoners of war.

Legion Calls For Ouster Of Bradley

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The American Legion called today for the ouster of Gen. Omar N. Bradley as veterans administrator and demanded that congress launch a full investigation of the veterans agency.

In a bluntly worded letter to all members of congress, Legion National Commander John Steele charged that there has been such a "tragic breakdown" of the VA under Bradley that applications of some 200,000 veterans for disability payments lie unprocessed.

Steele said that a "seasoned business man, not a soldier, however good a soldier he may be," should be placed in charge of the Veterans Administration.

Wants British Troops Moved Out Of Greece

Demand Draws Immediate Fire From British Foreign Secretary Bevin

SOVIET DEMANDS ACTION AT ONCE

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Great Britain today refused to meet a Soviet demand for the withdrawal of all British Troops from Greece.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said:

"British troops will be withdrawn when Britain has discharged her obligations."

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Feb. 1.—Soviet Russia today demanded the immediate withdrawal of all British troops from Greece.

This demand, made before the UNO security council by Soviet foreign vice-commissar Andrei Y. Vishinsky, drew immediate fire from British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin.

Bevin Replies

Bevin quoted Generalissimo Joseph Stalin as declaring at the Yalta conference that Russia would not interfere because the Soviet government had prefect confidence in British policy in Greece.

Vishinsky charged that the "presence of British troops has been used time and again by reactionaries against Democratic groups."

He added that "this is a danger to peace and security and is the reason why the Soviet Union thought it necessary to bring it to the attention of the security council."

Dynamite-Laden Issue

Vishinsky tossed this dynamite-laden issue into the lap of the security council just two days after he and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin staged an acrimonious debate over the presence of Russian troops in Iran.

Britain strongly supported the Iranian protest on Wednesday.

Truman's proposal that the steel workers be granted a wage increase of 18½ cents an hour.

Must Boost Prices

The U. S. Steel Corporation maintains that if they were to grant such a wage boost it would be necessary for the government to increase the basic price of steel "greatly in excess" of $6.25 a ton.

The government is unofficially reported willing to offer a raise in the price of steel slightly more than $4 a ton.

There the situation rests.

In Pittsburgh, meanwhile, the CIO steel workers union and the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation were engaged in a hot court battle over alleged illegal "mass picketing."

The corporation filed a petition seeking to enjoin the union from engaging in shoulder-to-shoulder picketing of its Homestead works.

Causing Damage

Seward H. French, Jr., an attorney representing the corporation, contended that the refusal of pickets to allow maintenance workers to enter the plant was causing "irreparable damage."

This was refuted by Eugene Cotton of Washington, D. C., a lawyer representing the union. He pointed out that the corporation has not asked the Homestead police to intervene and added that the court should not be put in the position of being "the patrolman."

Common pleas Judge Sara M. Soffel, in a sharp colloquy with Cotton, expressed the opinion that she thought it was up to the corporation rather than the union to say how many men were essential to enter the plant for maintenance.

Judge Soffel indicated she might hand down a decision late today in the injunction case.

Claims No Violation

Last night, Clinton S. Golden, assistant to the president of the United Steel Workers, reiterated that the union had not violated its contract in calling the strike against basic steel, fabricating plants, aluminum plants and iron ore companies.

Golden spoke over a nation-wide radio hook-up. He declared the right to strike is contained in a clause establishing the "right to reopen the wage question," which he says obligates the parties to engage in collective bargaining.

Golden charged that industry is "hiding that fact from the public," in alleging the strike is a violation of the contract.

FULL EMPLOYMENT BILL IS MODIFIED

nearing a compromise which almost completely reflects the House desires in the matter.

Tentative Agreement

The joint conferees have reached tentative agreement that the legislation shall be known as "the employment act of 1946." It has been agreed that the legislation shall make no reference to "full employment" nor, under present plans, will it "assure the right of a job".

Such phrases as these were rejected to by members in the House, who insisted on deleting them from the original bill as proposed by presidential backers. After the House had adopted a bill with these deletions, the chief executive made it plain that the legislation was not acceptable to him.

The original proposal would have called upon the president to submit to Congress a "national" budget, in which he would forecast the coming economic situation of the country, and recommend public works programs in periods where there were indications of slack employment opportunities.

The bill which the conferees now lean toward, would also delete this portion of the original measure. It would provide in stead for a commission to make advisory reports to the president. Such a commission was set up in the House version of the bill.

The Senate and House conferees have met continuously for two weeks, and reports that they were nearing agreement on a compromise came as a surprise on capitol hill.

It is not believed that survivors, of any, could have withstood the Arctic blasts of the two-mile high peak where snow drifts were reported to be at least 15 feet deep.

The eastbound plane carried 12 servicemen, being redeployed to New York City; six civilians, including a honeymooning couple and a prominent socialite, and a crew of three. Three of the victims were women.

Blizzard Halts Efforts

Elk Mountain, Wyo., Feb. 1.—(INS)—Blizzard conditions made it impossible for rescue parties to set out at dawn today in serch of a United airliner believed wrecked high on 11,162 (CQ) Elk mountain with its 18 passeniers and crew of three aboard.

Light falling snow and a heavy wind swept the southeastern Wyoming region. Weather bureau officials reported a temperature of five degrees above zero with wind velocity at 58 miles per hour.

The westerly flow of wind has wrapped clouds around the mountain peak. These will make it impossible for air searchers from Denver to get close to Elk mountain. Ground conditions are detaining land rescue parties.

and leave Hawaii as a place from which we could hit them on their way back.

"Had our fleet been on the west coast they would have taken Oahu in an amphibious operation. It's my opinion they could have done it."

Rep. Gearhart (R) Calif., brought out an apparent contradiction in Smith's testimony when he pointed out that the witness claimed the Japanese took an unnecessary risk in attacking the Pacific fleet.

Smith had said the Japanese knew the United States could not send a major naval force to aid the Philippines because they lacked auxiliary vessels.

Gearhart said this made the Pearl Harbor attack appear "absurd", and Smith agreed.

WANTS BRITISH TROOPS MOVED OUT OF GREECE

against the continued presence of British troops in Greece, Vinshinsky suddenly lashed out with the explosive statement that:

"The Soviet government insists upon the immediate withdrawal of British troops from Greece."

"Making Mistake"

Commenting on statements that Greece does not object to the presence of British troops, Vishinsky looked directly at Greek Ambassador Thanasis Aghnides as he said:

"The Greek government is making a mistake in not taking into consideration the effect of the presence of foreign troops."

He cited several instances where "private governments" have been established in Greek areas. Then he added:

"The British have often been used as a bulwark by Royalist and Fascist groups to justify their terrorist actions."

NEW LABOR BILL BEING READIED

the measure sponsored by Rep. Case (R) S. D. Dirksen took the position that "you can't compel a man to work."

The Dirksen measure largely strengthens conciliation and mediation processes and includes the creation of a board of arbitration.

Meanwhile, the Case bill, which provides severe penalties for contraction violations, bans mass picketing, sympathy and jurisdictional strikes, and contains many other features objectionable to pro-labor congressmen, ran into strong criticism in the House.

Some signs of a split became evident in Republican ranks, although the bill is expected to receive the support of a majority of G.O.P. members.

Urges Congress To Curb Strikes

Andrew Robertson, Chairman Of Board Of Westinghouse, Visits Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Andrew Robertson, chairman of the board of the Westinghouse Electric corporation, called on Congress today to curb the right of labor to strike.

Robertson—whose company is involved in the strike of 200,000 electrical workers—declared before the Senate Labor committee that the strike right is "erroneously called an inviolate right."

He declared that the right should be viewed in the light of public welfare and safety, adding:

For instance, may the milkman who delivers milk at my door, which my granddaughter needs to sustain life, strike and prevent anyone from delivering milk, thereby causing the death of my child?"

Planetary Persiflage

The business of bouncing radar pulses off the moon has resulted in renewed scientific speculation about the existence of human life on other planets. It has given new angles to the fascinating question of whether the inhabitants could communicate with such beings if they exist.

Army communications officers now are contemplating the possibility of generating enough power to send radar messages to such distant spots in the heavens as Mars and Venus. Said one officer:

"I seen no reason why, eventually, a form of Morse code by radar could not be transmitted to some of the celestial bodies about which conjecture has been made that life exists."

It can be taken for granted that radar sets of sufficient power for this operation will be developed. The next problem would have to do with the matter of possible replies, provided life exists and the men of Mars or the ladies of Venus feel like answering.

In what language would the answers be? Maybe this problem wouldn't be so tough at that. American cryptographers cracked the Japanese code before Pearl Harbor—they might be able also to decipher celestial conversations.

Or maybe they could get a little help from Orson Welles. Remember his radio scare about the Mars hobgoblins?

The possibilities unquestionably are intriguing. Some lack of enthusiasm over the prospects may be discovered among the young, though. Language lessons of the future are going to be really tough.

Harry L. Hopkins

When death removed Harry L. Hopkins from the American scene it took the one man, in all probability, who knew all that was said and done at Yalta, Teheran and other historic conferences of the war period, except for the principals involved in them—President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin.

No other figure of the New Deal remained throughout so close to Mr. Roosevelt as did Mr. Hopkins. He came with the newly elected president to Washington in 1933 as one of a little group of confidants and associates.

He took over and was the moving spirit in the stupendous relief activities of the earlier years of the New Deal, with special reference to WPA, whose ramifications became political as well as social in their vast scope.

Mr. Hopkins was credited as the spearhead of the Third Term movement. By that time his great power in national affairs was completely apparent.

Through the war period he served on vital international missions as the personal emissary of the president and accompanied him to every historic meeting with Allied leaders. In a sense a "man of mystery"—he avoided Washington social life—he remained Mr. Roosevelt's most intimate friend and counselor to the day of the president's death and after it served at the behest of President Truman on a mission to Moscow in an attempt to smooth out difficulties with Josef Stalin already developing from the war's end.

In Mr. Hopkins' retirement to private life, largely due to ill health, was seen the virtual close of the New Deal era. Few, if any others, except Mr. Roosevelt, so completely typified it, from beginning to end.

What To Do When Fire Strikes

If you should awaken at night with the acrid fumes of smoke biting your nostrils and suddenly realize that your house was on fire, what would you do? Unless you know what to do, and do it quickly, you and your family may die within the next few minutes. To avoid such tragedies, fire safety experts are promoting the adoption of fire drills in homes.

The details of fire drills in individual families will vary widely with circumstances, but the following suggestions are helpful in the general planning: (1) Insure the safety of everyone in the building. (2) Turn in a fire alarm. (3) Fight the fire, if suitable fire extinguishing equipmen is available.

The first suggestion means devising and practicing safe methods of escape from upper bedrooms when halls and stairways are cut off by flames and smoke. The first rehearsal drill may reveal conditions that require changes in domestic arrangements. Perhaps an invalid is sleeping in the room that is less accessible from the outside, or a baby is in a room that could not be reached if the main hall were cut off. If a hazardous condition cannot be corrected, the occupant of the room should be taught to jump only as a last resort. As a rule, firemen will reach the scene before this is necessary.

After safety of occupants has been secured, the next step is to turn in the alarm, preferably at a fire alarm box.

If an attempt is made to use extinguishing equipment, always remember to stand where there is a safe avenue of escape; maintain a position where smoke and flames will be blown away from you; clear the air in the room immediately after extinguishing the fire.

The above suggestions may save your life someday—don't forget them.

Harry L. Hopkins Casually Of War

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Harry L. Hopkins was a casualty of the war almost as much as the men killed on the battlefields. Those who spent their time and energy assailing him will not recognize this, but it is a fact nevertheless.

Having driven himself to the point of physical and nervous exhaustion in directing the New Deal Relief Administration he could have stepped into a sinecure that would have supported him until he had time to regain his health. But in May of 1940, he made his decision.

He moved into the White House to become the president's right hand. Ignoring the advice of his doctors, he worked ceaselessly except for periods when complete collapse forced him into a hospital.

Gruelling Work

The work he did was gruelling, it was often perilous. Hopkins went to Moscow shortly after the Germans attacked Russia in 1941, to work out a lend-lease agreement.

That meant a 21-hour non-stop flight from northern Scotland to a base near Murmansk, Russia. Then, at tree-top level, Hopkins was flown in a Russian plane from the far north to Moscow for the first of several talks with the master of the Kremlin. With the threat of enemy aircraft and the imminent possibility of a mistake by Russian anti-aircraft batteries, the odds were all against the completion of that hazardous trip.

Hazardous Journey

Last year, Hopkins made another hazardous journey to Russia. But it was hazardous for a different reason. His doctors had warned him that, if he went, he risked his chances to live.

That was a moment when our relations with the Soviet Union were at a low ebb. There were many sticking points, conspicuously the dispute over recognition of the Polish provisional government.

But President Truman asked Hopkins to go—and he went. Hopkins himself, weary, wraith-like, talking in a sort of husky whisper that even so had something of his old fire, shunned any dramatics about this. In the same way, he did not bother to defend himself from the political attacks that never stopped.

Selfless is a dangerous, an overworked word. But it applied to Hopkins in the years of the war.

Warm Admiration

Both Admiral King and General Marshall, when they spoke privately, were warm in admiration of Hopkins' role in the war. He worked with them to cut through delays and confusions impeding the war effort. When something was badly snarled, they could count on Hopkins to try to straighten it out. And he usually was successful.

He had earned a little rest. In quiet retirement he planned to write the story of the war and, later, if there was time, the political history of the New Deal and the third term.

It was this last which he longed to relate, as he had taken part in it. He believed that on this score, more perhaps than on any other, his great and good friend Franklin Roosevelt was maligned.

Death Is Tragic

One of the reasons why his death at this time is tragic is that it cuts across his endeavor to set down as he had lived it the history of our time. More than any other American, after Roosevelt's death, he was in a position to report the events of the past 12 years.

For all his admiration of FDR and the deep attachment that held the two men together, he saw his hero in more or less clear perspective. Hopkins believed that Roosevelt would never have been able to write anything like an objective history of the war.

"The boss," he once said, "never lost a battle. That was his strength. And at times it was his weakness. He just never lost a battle."

By an irony that probably would have amused Hopkins, who had a sardonic, often biting sense of humor, he was being attacked almost at the moment of his death for having sent lend-lease planes to the battle of Europe. The author of the attack was Representative Gearhart of California, Republican. But Hopkins is beyond attack now.

History will take care of that.

VALENTINE PARTY

"Have you any suggestions for a Valentine party — table arrangements, menu, and some amusing games to play?"

Answer: For your able: A white cloth on which place your very best china, red globlets and a centerpiece of red roses flanked with red candles. White cake with "Be My Valentine" iced in red and at each guest's place a red satin heart filled with candy. Two red crepe paper containers—one filled with nuts and the other with mints—might be placed at each end of the table.

Place cards made up like Valentines with a sentimental verse on each will complete your table decorations.

An appropriate menu: Fruit salad with red cherries in it, heart-shaped sandwiches, punch and cake.

Games: "A Letter to My Lover." Have an envelope containing a blank sheet of paper prepared for each guest. Each envelope should have the name of the addressee and in the upper left hand corner the name of the sender. For instance, one of your women guests will pick an envelope addressed to "Romeo" and she as "Juliet" must write an appropriate letter. Her finished note should be given to the man holding a letter for Juliet and vice versa.

There will be great fun when the letters are read aloud. And then, too, these "famous lovers" may be supper partners.

Here is another game: Blindfold your guests and have each draw a heart on a large sheet of paper tacked on the wall. In the center of the heart or as near the center as possible should be written the name of the person who sketched it.

In your living room, have a small tree, like a tiny Christmas tree or a branch on which hang favors tied with red ribbon.

Present your problems to Miss Markel who will promptly mail personal replies to readers inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

LOOKING AT LIFE

By ERICH BRANDEIS

My recent articles on religion brought such a flood of letters that I made up my mind never to write on that subject again.

You will remember that I said all religions are good as long as they lead to God.

Many of my correspondents commended me, many others condemned me. Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, Lutheran and Catholic—each told me that his was the only church that leads to salvation.

So—no more of it, except that before I drop the matter, I want to give you an excerpt from the writings of the late Cardinal Gibbons, whom, regardless of your beliefs, you will acknowledge as an outstanding churchman.

This is what he said in his "Unity of the Church":

"Our common sense alone, apart from revelation, is sufficient to convince us that God could not be the author of various opposing systems of religions. God is essentially one. He is Truth itself.

"How could the God of truth affirm, for instance, to one body of Christians that there are three persons in God, and to another there is only one person in God? How could He say to one individual that Jesus Christ is God, and to another that He is only man? How can He tell me that the punishments of the wicked are eternal, and to tell another that they are not eternal? One of these contradictory statements must be false. 'God is not the God of dissension, but of peace' (I. Cor. XIV. 33).

"'And there shall be made one fold and one shepherd'. (John X.16) What more beautiful or fitting illustration of unity can we have than that which is suggested by a sheepfold? All the sheep of a flock cling together. If they are momentarily separated, they are impatient till reunited. They follow in the same path. They feed in the same pastures.

"His Church is compared to a human body. 'As in one body we have many members, but all the members have not the same office; so we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of the other.' (Rom. XII. 4, 5).

"Even so our Lord ordained that His Church, composed of many members, should be at united to one supreme visible Head, whom they are bound to obey.

"The Church is compared to a vine all whose branches, though spreading far and wide are necessarily connected with the main stem, and from its sap they are nourished."

That is what I meant when I said that all religions are good as long as they lead to God, and that is what Cardinal Gibbons meant in his interpretation of the unity of religion.

And that is all I have to say on the subject.

WHAT FATHER USED TO SAY

Said old Crankmire at the table
in a reminiscent way:
More and more I keep repeating
things my father used to say Though at first I little heeded (as if youngsters ever do),
Still today I hear him saying:
Here's a bit of counsel true.
Never judge a man by color, race
or form of faith and prayer.
Never cast upon another any burden
you should bear.

"When you set your hand to labor
give your best to every task.
Never be ashamed to answer if who did this? men should ask.
Sell your strength and skill for money but give value in return.
Never ask the world to give you
what you will not work to earn.

Oh, I know this sounds like preaching, but long after I'm away
You may sometimes tell your comrades what your father used to say.

There are always din and clamor,
and the vulgar and the loud.
There are always rabble-rousers will keep stirring up the crowd.
But alone, and by his fireside,
every father, when he can,
Tries his best to teach his youngster what it is that makes the man.
And those things that I've been telling are repeated every day
By the humblest and the greatest with: "My father used to say."

SANITATION

Sanitation seems to aim at keeping people comfortable as well as healthy.

A neighborhood may be clean and neat but if there is a bad smell, the citizens will not be comfortable.

Noise may cause discomfort in an otherwise satisfactory community.

Brawling and disorder may cause an area to be shunned by decent and respectable people.

Cleanliness, good order, quietness, neatness and health seem to help to make a neighborhood desirable for good people.

Building Industry May Be Given Hot-Foot
Housing Expediter Planning Drastic Action
Eisenhower Scores With Irate Wives Of GI's

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—National Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt is quietly gathering in the kindling to light a bonfire under the building trades and construction industry in an effort to get more homes built quickly.

The former mayor of Louisville, Ky., is remaining out of the limelight for the time being. He is satisfied to confere with all segments of the home-building industry and government officials.

But he wants some acting from both workers and management. Aware that more than a million families will have to double up this year and that only some 400,000 to 500,000 new homes can be built in 1946, Wyatt said:

"My job is to see that homes are built quickly."

In addition to meetings with federal, union and industry representatives, Wyatt also is enlisting the aid of committees. He earnestly feels that the government cannot go a great deal toward relieving the critical housing shortage.

The burden of this responsibility he says, will fall on the local governments.

As his first step in this direction, he conferred with the mayors of such scattered cities as Chicago, Portland, Ore., Dallas and Burlington, Vt.

Eisenhower Braves Women

The Capitol still rings with comment on the brave stand Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Germany's conqueror for the west, made in the presence of a group of irate GI wives, who wanted their husbands brought home immediately to civilian life.

Eisenhower, the chief of staff who often has been called the "soldier diplomat", stood his ground, firmly and courteously to the end.

He won the ladies who praised his manners.

Sympathetic with their point of view, Eisenhower nevertheless has made it clear that any speed-up in demobilization at present would mean disintegration in the army.

Agreements to move large segments of the European population in accord with boundry changes have raised some lively questions. One of them is the determination of the nationality of persons who, with a background of origin many years old in one country, migrated to other lands and built up lives and businesses distinct to the lands of their adoption.

In the present case, the problem is to be dealt with more effectively than in the last war, officials say. They recall an incident then when a large group of Poles, fleeing Russia, all sought American protection on the grounds they were Americans.

Auto Workers Change Strategy

Most of them pleaded Brooklyn was their home. A fast-thinking officer worked out an original screening process. He asked each who the Dodgers' shortstop was. Those who knew got in; the others were out.

Under the present plan the matter will be more complicated. A sure formula for determining nationality may never be arrived at. In Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland, for instance, the Czechs are not anxious to have all Germans removed even though that population formed Hitler's excuse for moving in.

Some of the Sudeten Germans are expert technicians, particularly in the nation's famed glass blowing industry. But the Russians insisted that even these skilled men leave. One official, asked how nationalities will be determined, commented facetiously, "Perhaps by the Russians".

The CIO Auto Workers' campaign for a wage boost without higher car prices is proving embarrassing to some other CIO unions. As a consequence, the United Auto Workers probably will soft pedal this phase of their wage fight.

The Steelworkers' union, headed by CIO President Philip Murray himself, well knows that any wage adjustment it receives will be tied in with an increase in the price of steel, perhaps $4.00 a ton.

In addition the CIO Packinghouse Workers' union is in the same predicament. Meat packers insisted that they need a price boost and the government started juggling the meat price ceilings to make the wage adjustment possible.

The World and the Mud Puddles

HEAR THAT ECHOING CRY

Butter, butter — who's got the butter?

The answer seems to be that the cheese and ice cream makers have the most of the butter fat, and that there isn't much butter as a consequence.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson says that the best way for the public to get butter is to pay more for it. He figures a present advance of six cents a pound, with an eventual rise of eighteen cents, will start the dairymen to making more butter.

The OPA wants to keep the price at present levels, even though we get no butter.

A leading California dairyman lately explained that there was no reason why dairies should make butter to retail at fifty-seven cents a pound, when it takes sixty cents to seventy cents worth of butter fat to make a pound of butter.

Because there is more profit in selling butter fat for other products than butter, and OPA keeps retail butter prices down, nobody has any incentive to make butter.

The consuming public is more likely to agree with Secretary Anderson than with OPA. Most of us would prefer to pay more for butter than go without it. If we have that preference, there is no reason why a government bureau should deny us the right to exercise it.

The OPA, as usual, argues "inflation." There already is inflation in the black market, where butter is selling as high as one and one-half dollars a pound. Considering the relatively small amount spent per family per year on butter, the fear of inflation is mostly mythical.

Our butter situation, like that which prevailed in meat for so long, is the result of government interference with supply and demand. The sooner we quit tinkering with these matters, the sooner we will get back to a normal economic feeling.

Hints On Etiquette

Never force a business person to talk shop if he or she wishes to relax and forget business.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TRAFFIC ON SCHOOL STREETS

An elementary school principal writes: "Dear Dr. Myers.—This is just a note to suggest a topic for one of your newspaper articles. I believe that the dangerous condition caused by parents crowding the streets near school on rainy days is definitely a matter of discourtesy. All schools experience this when it rains: Cars blocking traffic, triple parking, honking, sometimes scraped fenders, ragged tempers, dangerous situations when children may be hurt.

"We believe it is a situation that courtesy could cure. Courtesy is noticeable when pedestrians meet, but get one behind the wheel and—well! What is it that makes so many of us act like maniacs when we feel the power behind a motor?"

Added Power

It seems to me this principal has written such an article for me. I might observe that behind the wheel we tend to take on an added sense of power and subtracted sense of consideration for other persons; we become more machine-like ourselves, and are less inclined, therefore, to put ourselves in our imagination in the other person's place.

My correspondent was describing practices outside a school building in a neighborhood economically very comfortable where, even in good weather, many children, some of them living only a few blocks away, are hailed in the family car to and from school. This is a condition in which I believe many children, and all the community and nation, will eventually pay for this luxury in the consequent loss to the children's character growth, from being robbed of self-reliance and effort. Why don't parents let children who are not sick or crippled, walk to school within a mile or so in good weather? Wouldn't this be good for the health and physical ruggedness as well as the character of these children?

Walking To School

At many an elementary school, one also may see parents leading tots across the street, jaywalking or against the traffic lights. These parents are thinking only of the here-and-now, of getting the child across the street. Assuming they do so without accident, they are actually training their child to be less safe in crossing the street later, alone.

Often, these are parents of more than average native intelligence and education. They are just not using the brains they were born with."

Yet, from such parents we should reasonably expect superior examples of good manners in the use of a car outside the school building or elsewhere, and good examples of training their children in safety and self-reliance. If we do expect such, we may be disappointed. At any rate, their children, later, have to pay the price.

Should the operator of a motor vehicle be cautioned by a passenger regarding dangerous driving practices? Judging from past experiences it may not be a bad idea. Self Control Big Need Of People Says Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
(Copyright, 1946, Publishers Financial Bureau, Inc.)

BABSON PARK, Fla., Feb. 1.—A friend of President Truman has asked me to boost his national health program. No one appreciates more than I the importance of good health, having once been "given up for dead" in connection with a long sickness of tuberculosis. This is the reason why my offices now are "out in the woods". I still do much work out-of-doors. Naturally, I favor helping those who are ill to get needed time and money for sufficient rest, the rest of all remedies.

BABSON

On the other hand, I have learned that financial aid is of little value in keeping well and getting well unless it is accompanied by self-control. All doctors will agree with this statement. Yes, self-control is necessary in keeping one's health, in keeping one's job, and in keeping one's happiness. President Truman should insist that schools and colleges do more to teach and develop self-control.

Keeping Well

Most people know what to do to keep well. They know that they should eat different food and eat more slowly and regularly; they know that they should go to bed earlier and sleep in good fresh air; and they know that they should keep their feet dry and do other things that our mothers tried to teach us. It is not knowledge or money that most sick people lack; but rather self-control.

We all need self-control to avoid being careless, lazy and indifferent about the important things of life. We need self-control to develop good habits and to avoid bad or careless habits. Our habits are the most important factor in enjoying good health and good jobs.

Getting Promoted

Too many of readers are content to drift along at their present jobs and depend upon labor leaders, friends or others for advancement. When I was young, most of us wanted opportunities, and laughed at those few people who wanted security. Today, however, most people seem to want security; they lack the self-control necessary for getting better opportunities, more promotions and higher wages.

A foreman must have self-control to keep fit physically and mentally so as to concentrate on his work; self-control to make friends and self-control to never lose his temper. If he expects to someday go into business for himself, he must also have self-control to save money; with the help of a good wife. The determining factor of whether a man will someday be an employer, or must always work for someone else, is this man's ability to save money. The man who constantly saves money, can ultimately become an employer; but the one who does not save money, must always work for someone else.

Investing Money

Speaking of money reminds me of the need of self-control in successful investing. It is not difficut to pick out good stocks. A few weeks ago I gave a list of 25 stocks all of which paid dividends for over 25 years, and some for 50 years! The important need is to know when to buy, rather than to know what to buy. Most persons buy only when their neighbors are buying which usually is too late.

The time to buy is during a panic when prices are low, but this requires self-control. A person with sufficient self-control could have invested $2,000 forty years ago and, without borrowing a penny, could have made it worth $1,500,000 today—buying and selling only nine times during these 40 years. But such a person needed to have self-control enough to sell when others were buying, and to buy when others were selling.

Success In Business

Returning servicemen, who hope to go into business for themselves, especially need patience and self-control. No new business can be expected to pay from the first, whether it is a little factory, a small store or a barber shop. Starting a new business is like planting a tree. It cannot be neglected and needs care and watering for a long time before it bears fruit.

Men starting a business should have the self-control to say "no" and stick to it when they should say no; and the self-control to say "yes" and stick to it when they should say "yes". Sometimes I think that self-control is a spiritual quality which we cannot buy; but which we can get only on our knees through humble prayer.

It is expected Congress shortly will make available the $500,000,000 highway fund for each of the next three years, to be matched by an equal amount by the states, in our forthcoming huge national highway building program.

State Compensation Payments Reach Record In Month

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Unemployment compensation payments during January were the highest in Pennsylvania since the depression's rock bottom, it was reported today by State Treasurer Ramsey S. Black.

The combined paments of jobless benefits and servicemen's readjustment allowances, which "broke all records," totaled $19,668,079.50, he added.

Unemployment compensation totaled $9,359,214.50 last month compared with $10,008,598.70 during March, 1938, Black declared. January payments to veterans surpassed both with a total of $10,308,865, he stated.

"The huge total of combined unemployment compensation and S. R. A. payments last month came within a couple of million dollars of equalling the combined total of all unemployment compensation payments made during 1942, 1943 and 1944," Black asserted. "During those years approximately 22 million dollars was distributed."

Strickler Mentioned In Governor Fight

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 1.—(INS)—The executive committee of Lancaster post 19 of the American Veterans of World War II Thursday urged the Republican state committee to slate Col. Daniel B. Strickler for governor.

Strickler, a Lancaster attorney and former member of the legislature, is a veteran of both world wars and during the last conflict commanded the 110th regiment of the 28th division.

The Amvets emphasized that the endorsement was non-political and was offered because of Strickler's "proven qualifications".

J. K. McQUIDDY IS STILL IMPROVING

Continued improvement has been noted in the condition of former State Senator J. K. McQuiddy, East Meyer avenue, who was shocked and burned when he came in contact with some high voltage wire at the plant of the United Engineering & Foundry company early this week.

Health Tests In Rural Schools To Start Feb. 15

Complete Medical, Dental Examinations Slated For School Children

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—Pennsylvania's progress of complete medical and dental examinations for school children and teachers in the state's rural Fourth Class districts will get underway about February 15, 1946, it was announced today by the State Department of Health.

John W. German, chief of the department's school division, said health service reports forms for use in the examination were being mailed to county superintendents of schools throughout the state for distribution to the fourth class districts.

"School medical examiners in the state have been contacted on their willingness to participate in the program and examinations will be authorized in those districts where adequate personnel is available and suitable places for conducting the examinations are assured," German said.

Begin February 15

"The program in Allegheny county's Fourth Class districts will be started about February 15, 1946. To date 75 per cent of Allegheny county's districts have filed their health service reports. We expect at least 30 of these districts will be in a position to start the program after the 15th of February. Forty-three districts have been approved for dental examinations only."

Public health nursing supervisors of the department have been instructed on the procedure to be followed in the Fourth Class districts where the state nurses in these areas will act as coordinators with the county superintendents and the county medical directors in setting up the program as rapidly as possible.

Long Distance Rates To Be Lower

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Beginning today, long distance telephone call tolls will be lower.

Reduced charges went in effect which will save Pennsylvania telephone subscribers about $903,000 annually. Nationally, the reductions will total about $16 million.

The lower rates apply to trunk calls to points between 340 and 2,140 miles distant.

Urges Expansion Of Police Forces To Combat Mishaps

Depleted State And Local Police Forces Inadequate To Fight Rising Rate

Immediate expansion of state and local police forces as a means of combatting the alarming increase in the motor vehicle accident rate in Pennsylv. ia was urged today by R. B. Maxwell, secretary-manager of the Pennsylvania Motor federation and its 61 affiliated AAA motor clubs in the state.

"Most police forces, both state and municipal, have been seriously depleted by the war," Mr. Maxwell said, "and while efforts are underway to rebuild police forces, they are currently too small in number to provide adequate enforcement of motor vehicle laws."

1,380 Killed

The PMF official pointed out that figures of the Bureau of Highway Safety show that for the year 1945 there were 1,380 persons killed and 34,773 accidents, an increase in fatalities of 11 per cent over the year 1944 when 1,244 persons were killed and 29,928 injured in 42,616 accidents.

"Serious trouble will result and the accident rate will increase even to a greater extent if state and municipal governments do not rebuild their police forces immediately," Mr. Maxwell stated. "Only through an adequate police force permitting strict enforcement of the laws can we hope to keep the accident rate at a minimum.

More Drivers

"Largely responsible for the increase in the highway accident rate is the fact that more people are again driving with the lifting of wartime restriction." Mr. Maxwell explained, adding that also responsible "is a new generation of motor vehicle drivers who have yet to become accustomed to strict enforcement of the motor vehicle laws."

OFFICE SPACE SCARCE

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—You won't have any trouble looking for office space in Pittsburgh—there isn't enough left to bother anyone.

With office rent up at least 10 per cent from the pre-war standards because commercial property has no rent ceiling, the office building owners and managers of Pittsburgh in their latest report reveal that 98 per cent of the office space is occupied.

Chooses Therapy Course To Help Wounded Veterans

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Observation of the effective use of physical therapy to help soldiers regain the use of injured limbs was responsible for Miss Martha J. Wratney's selection of hpysical therapy as a post war cereer.

Miss Wratney, wo served in Burma and later in England as a Red Cross worker during the war, obtained a scholarship to attend the national foundation for infantile paralysis where she will study physical therapy for nine months and then work in a hospital for three months.

She then hopes to work with wounded veterans to help them overcome their injuries.

High School Kids To "Fly" On Ground

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—A dodo is a bird with plenty of wing—but he just won't fly.

Air-minded Pittsburgh high school students will have to imitate him—at least until they can take their own flying lessons—for they, too, have plenty of wing, but can't fly.

The Board of Education recently bought three airplanes. However, they have orders not to allow them off the ground.

The students will be permitted to get in the cockpit, start and stop the engines and go through the motions of blind flying—always on terra firma.

The board has bought three BT-13's for $100 each for educational purposes, from the War Assets corporation.

Lady Astor Says Spiritual Rebirth Must Precede Peace

American-Born British Figure Advocates Faith In Religion For Peace

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Lady Astor, in an unusually serious mood, said Thursday that a spiritual re-birth throughout the world must precede peace and progress.

The American-born British political figure summarized her own "policy" as faith in religion and belief in the English way of thinking. She said:

"There is a deep spiritual longing in all the countries of the world . . . If I had my way I would send the Salvation Army to Europe with Bibles translated into all languages.

"You can't have any progress without a normal foundation . . . Of course, it won't do any good if you think of God as an old man with whiskers who will hit you over the head if you make a slip."

Anglo-American Team

Lady Astor said that in her opinion peace could be obtained through cooperation of the United States and the British empire. She explained:

"There are enough people in the world wanting peace . . . They long for peace more than plenty. The best way to get it is for the British empire and the United States to cooperate . . .

"We need peace and patience . . . We've got to see what's best in other countries."

She hit hard at critics of Britain and asked who was engendering movements against the British. She asked:

Britain Wicked?

"What has Great Britain done that's so wicked? She's had a good record from time immemorial. You'd better get down on your knees and thank God for Great Britain.

"What is Great Britain's crime?"

Lady Astor also hit criticism in the United States of various British officials. She pointed out:

"We have had some desirable American ambassadors in London and some very undesirable ones. There was no vocal criticism of their actions, however."

When pressed for the name of the "very undesirable ones" Lady Astor laughed and said:

"I know but I'm not going to tell you."

Lenses and prisms made of plastic materials and used in artillery sights, range finders and field glasses during the war, are much softer than glass, and scratch easier. However, postwar research is expected to remedy this and produce lenses equal to glass units.

House Will Air Labor Legislation In Open Discussion

Body Reverses Its 1945 Stand When It Refused To Consider Anti-Strike Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The House voted Thursday to take up without further delay controversial labor legislation.

The vote was 258 to 114.

In voting to proceed with consideration of President Truman's fact-finding bill and a substitute measure containing rigid anti-strike provisions the House reversed the position it took last December when it refused to consider the Smith-Arends anti-strike bill.

The test vote came after an hour's debate in which "full, free and open discussion" of the perplexing labor-management situation was urged.

Actual voting on labor legislation is slated to begin Monday after two days of general debate.

Rep. Clark (D) N. C., told the House it will have full opportunity to write its own labor legislation but warned that the matter is highly controversial.

Clark asked the House to "act dispassionately and with a spirit of reasonableness" but to "work its will".

Rep. Brown (R) Ohio, called the problem "one of the most perplexing that ever troubled the American people".

Rep. Andrews (R) N. Y., urged enactment of the case bill, backed by a powerful coalition of Republicans and Southern Democrats as a substitute for the watered-down version of President Truman's fact-finding bill, which also is before the House. He declared:

"Its enactment would be a deterrent to strikes."

Gen. Eisenhower Is New Member

Honorary Member Of Slumbering Lodge Of Groundhogs At Quarryville, Pa.

QUARRYVILLE, Pa. Feb. 1.—(INS)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, notified the Slumbering Lodge of Groundhogs, Quarryville chapter, that he has accepted the honorary membership tendered by the fun-making organization.

"Thank you, I appreciate the distinction," wrote the former commander of allied armies in Europe.

His acceptance was received as patriarchs prepared for their annual pilgrimage to the groundhog's winter home near Quarryville. If the animal sees its shadow Saturday there will be six more weeks of winter.

Secretary Treasurer and Bondless Treasurer W. U. Hensel was disdainful of the claims put forth by the pretender from the Puxsutawney weather works.

"You can't expect much from a town that begins with Punx," he asserted. "After all, the groundhogs in that vicinity are all black and they wouldn't know [illegible] if they saw one."

In its annual report released today, the American College of Surgeons lists the three hospitals in Lawrence county, Jameson Memorial, New Castle and Ellwood City, as approved hospitals. This approval means that each of the hospitals meet with the rigid requirements of the American College of Surgeons.

To meet the rigid requirements a hospital must have a modern plant, a clearly defined organization, a carefully selected governing board, a competent well trained superintendent, adequate and efficient personnel, an organized medical staff of ethical, competent physicians and surgeons, adequate diagnostic and therapeutic facilities, accurate complete medical records, regular group conferences of the administrative staff, and a humanitarian spirit. All of these the local hospitals have.

Some Legislators Expect To Retire

Claim Salary Too Low To Induce Them To Run For Re-Election

OTHER NEWS OF STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Some assemblymen have told newsmen at the State capitol that they do not contemplate seeking re-election because of the low salaries . . . Members of the legislature, which meets biennially, receive $3,000 for the two year term, plus $50 for postage and five cents a "round mile" for traveling to and from their homes. "I can't afford to run for re-election because I've got too much other business," said one prominent representative who is a lawyer.

A scale model of the State capitol group including the proposed people's court at the eastern entrance has been erected in Gov. Edward Martin's reception room . . . The model, which measures one-sixth of an inch to the foot, includes even the most minute details of the capitol group . . . The plaster model shows the completed capitol. The model is erected on a table and later will be inclosed in glass . . . Work on the capitol project was expected to be started in the spring . . . Future inaugurations may be held in the peoples court.

State Police Commissioner C. M. Wilhelm has called upon Pennsylvania motorists and pedestrians to exercise "common sense" in line with the commonwealth's campaign to reduce traffic accident fatalities . . . He pointed out that 674 pedestrian fatalities occurred in the state last year.

Although about one-half of Pennsylvania is comprised of woodlands, there were at least 10 counties that husk more corn annually than 17 states, the State Commerce department has reported.

In April, 1775, the Pennsylvania society for promoting the abolition of slavery was formed at Philadelphia. This was the first organization formed to arouse public sentiment for the abolition of slavery in America.

A three-story colonial house for use by Pennsylvania's chief executives has been constructed at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, 20 miles east of Harrisburg . . . The house, richly furnished with Pennsylvania Dutch antiques, is situated on a hill near the main entrance to the reservation . . . An attractively decorated glass-enclosed sun porch provides a panoramic view of the spacious reservation.

DELINQUENCY INCREASE

MCKEESPORT, Pa., Feb. 1.—A 25% juvenile delinquency is increase in McKeesport, police juvenile authorities have disclosed.

Juvenile Officer William F. Hatch claiming that the worst offenders were from 13 to 15 in age, said that 304 cases were brought to police attention in 1945 while only 271 cases were reported to police in 1944.

Bull Snake Shakes Hibernation In Thaw

QUINCY, Ill.—(INS)—Quincy residents were not so sure it was just plain January thaw.

Unseasonably warm weather brought Johnny jump-ups to bloom in Mrs. Fred Howser's yard. Mrs. Gale Venghaus reported sponge mushrooms were growing near her home.

A three-foot bull snake shaking winter hibernation crawled from a grassy spot near a pond into the view of Logar Newton and Paul Edwards. They hastily tossed the reptile into the pond. But the snake, they said, spurned the icy waters and wriggled back to the grass.

Most amazing of all, said Quincyans, was a break-up of ice in the Mississippi river as it rolled toward a near flood mark of almost 17 feet.

New York New Contender For U. N. O. Quarters

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—(INS)—New York City today became the leading contender for interim headquarters of the United Nations.

The Hotel Association, through Grover Whalen, chairman of the city UNO committee, offered 5,000 hotel rooms for the second plenary session of the UNO general assembly Sept. 1 through Oct. 15.

Hotel accommodations have been the principal stumbling block delaying recommendation of New York as an interim site.

The alternates which will be recommended to London are Boston and Atlantic City, N. J.

Fred O. Cosgrove, president of the Hotel Association of New York, said the rooms probably will be prorated through most of the city's 300 leading hotels if the UNO accepts the offer.

It has been no secret for some time that the UNO inspection group wanted to recommend New York but was waiting for the city sponsoring committee to make an attractive offer.

Rebury Slain Girl At Aliquippa, Pa.

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Feb. 1.—The body of Jean Fatur, 20-year-old slaying victim, which was recovered three months ago from the Maumee river, near Toledo, O., was returned yesterday to the home of her brother, John Fatur, here, for reburial in Pennsylvania.

Authorities credited Patur with furnishing information which led to identification of the body, which had been buried in Ohio, as that of his sister and the subsequent arrest of Ervin Herge of Ellwood City in the slaying.

Herge has admitted, police say, that he killed the young Ellwood City girl last October 17 and carried the body for 10 days in his car before dumping it into the river. He is awaiting trial in New Castle.

Ross made the statement at his morning news conference after it was learned that President Truman planned to meet with members of the steel fact-finding committee later in the day.

Ross was asked whether the steel committe was to meet with Mr. Truman to discuss the final proposal for a steel price increase.

He replied that to his knowledgs "the President just wanted to talk matters over with the committee."

Some Chrysler Workers Return; More Idle At Ford

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Auto workers at the Chrysler Corp. were being recalled to work today while 3,000 others at the Ford Motor company were laid off.

Posthumous Award For Wm. R. Fleming Received By His Wife

Silver Star Citation Awarded To Marine Lieutenant Who Died In Pacific

Mrs. Charlotte Wismer Fleming, whose husband, Marine Lieutenant William R. Fleming was killed in action August 3, 1944 on the island of Tinian in the Pacific, has received the Silver Star award, given posthumously for gallantry in action on Saipan of the Marianas Islands.

The medal, given to Mrs. Fleming at the Philadelphia naval base Friday, January 25, was accompanied by the following message from the secretary of the navy:

"For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity while attached to the Third Battalion, Sixth Marines, Second Marine Division, in action against the enemy Japanese forces on Saipan, Marianas Islands, June 24, 1944. Courageous and aggressive in the fact of terrific fire from the Japanese guns, Second Lt. Fleming rendered valuable service during operations on the strategically important enemy stronghold. When the leader and many of the men became casualties, he voluntarily assumed command of a rifle platoon during its assault on an enemy emplacement, and despite intense hostile mortar and small arms fire, personally inspected the front lines, observed enemy positions and reconnoitered the area in front of his platoon.

Exposed Himself

"Expert maneuvering his men into positions affording the best fire lanes upon the hostile emplacements, he constantly exposed himself in order to direct the fire of his weapons, and, by his determined initiative, enable his badly depleted platoon to neutralize the emplacement which contained a vastly superior number of troops.

"His gallant leadership was directly instrumental in affecting the advance of his company and was in keeping with the highest tradition of the United States Naval Service."

Lieutenant Fleming's mother, Mrs H. P. Fleming, lives at R. D. 4, Harlansburg road. His wife is residing in Lancaster, Pa.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police traffic attaches during clear weather painted traffic lines along some of the important traffic lanes and with another stretch of clear weather it is likely the work will be resumed. No doubt there will be considerable work required not only along streets but a repainting of some street signs which show the effects of winter weather.

New automobile procured by the Police department is operating day an night. Now and then it is dispatched to different sections to check speeders. The car is equipped with radio and within a few minutes can answer calls from any section of the city through the police broadcasting system. The city hopes to acquire two more new automobiles.

Weather such as last night plays havoc with collectors of garbage. It freezes in the cans and twice as much time is required to loosen and dump it into a receptacle which is wheeled to the garbage truck. Garbage collectors are now paid according to the weight they collect and according to City Garbage department officials that while the men receive more money, the cost of operating the department is less because less men are required.

District Attorney Steps Into Probe Of 'Gang' Slaying

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The Allegheny county district attorney's office stepped into the "gang" slaying of Gus Gianni, convicted numbers writer and small time politician.

District Attorney Artemus C. Leslie said he was interested primarily in the report that Gianni contributed large sums of money to the election campaign of Alderman Leonard Civill.

Civill, elected by a margin of 33 votes, denied receiving large sums of money for his campaign.

The investigation came as Marion Gianni, widow of the slain racketeer, told police that her husband could not buy her a Christmas gift because he contributed $7000 to Civill's campaign.

Gianni's body was found sprawling on the sidewalk in Pittsburgh riddled with bullets.

Steal Eight Pigs From Prison Farm

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Two war veterans today admitted stealing eight pigs from the Allegheny county workhouse farm.

William Whitman and George McKay said they knew nothing about butchering so they took the eight porkers to a meat market for slaughtering. Detectives nabbed them, pigs and all.

Judge A. Marshall Thompson, a Democrat, asked:

"Were they in sausage or on the hoof?"

A detective replied:

"On the hoof. I understand they were to be served at a Republican dinner."

"One year in the workhouse," Judge Thompson said, but placed the two on probation when he learned of Whitman and McKay's outstanding war records.

Summarize Tips For State Drivers

Helpful Suggestions Meant To Aid Drivers Who Haven't Driven Much Lately

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Here's a summary of safe winter driving tips prepared by the Keystone Automobile club to assist beginners and experienced motorists who haven't been on the road much during the war:

1. "When approaching a curve on a slippery road, start braking before the car reaches the turn. Keep the vehicle in gear and feed gas evenly while rounding the curve. Releasing the clutch under these conditions may send the car into a skid.

Braking Tips

2. "Always apply the brake with the car in gear. This gives double braking effect, because the decelerated motor is a powerful aid in bringing the car to a stop. Drivers who release the clutch simultaneously with application of the brakes put all the strain on the braking mechanism.

3. "In hilly country, the safest practice is to go into second gear in descending grades. Many motorists accustomed to driving in level country are imperiled on mountain roads because they place too much dependence upon brakes."

Falls are the outstanding cause of accidental deaths in and about the home.

Visual Education Program Being Carried On Causes Widespread Interest Among Pupils

Back when Mum and Dad were kids, going to school was not nearly as interesting as it is today in a number of the schools about the city. During those early days our parents had to learn the hard way the rudiments of grammar and arithmetic.

But today, in the Rose avenue school building students arrive at the school house with that eager anticipatory expression all due to the new and novel method that is being used to teach many subjects in the school.

Where the scholars formerly depended entirely on the mind and memory to retain the lessons taught, a system of visual education has been introduced by the interested teachers of the school staff thereby making it a pleasure to teach their subjects to the boys and girls.

Back in the fall of 1945 a group of the teachers and parents got together and held an old fashioned auction to procure equipment for the use of the Rose avenue and Oak street grade schools realizing enough money to purchase both a sound picture machine and a slide picture projector known as the Delineoscope.

Teachers Assembling Pictures

For some time Miss Laura Blucher, aided by Miss Genevieve Schugers and Mrs. Eleanor Nelson, teachers at the school, have been assorting, assembling and filing pictthree of all types with subjects ranging from bridges to animals to be shown with the aid of the slide machine to the eager students. The pictures have been the gift of other teachers in the building, from the pupils and parents and are still coming in from all sources to be used in the program.

The pictures are assorted into their respective subjects and are then filed making them accessible to the teacher planning to make use of them.

Miss Blucher, in an interview with a News man, stated that the National Geographic magazine has been a rich source of the material for the cause with many more to be picked up if a method could be instituted to bring the magazines to the school.

Public Display February 12

A public display of the work done will be shown to the parents of the school when a program will be presented in the building, Tuesday, February 12. The display will be conducted in the specially fitted projection room which has dark blinds, making it possible to show the pictures either in daylight or at night.

Rose avenue school, which is the newest elementary school building in the city school system, boasts it's own library, with 1200 books, and is under the supervision of Miss Verlee Armstrong. Pupils use the library twice each week.

In the music room, under the direction of Miss Mildred Gresham, quite a bit of activity is carried on including a rhythm band and a chorus of 35 to 40 students. The students broadcast a program every other Friday over the local radio station.

ADJUSTMENTS ADVISABLE IN 1946 FOR FARMERS

There are adjustments ahead for Pennsylvania farmers as they examine the outlook for farm production in 1946.

Prices for dairy products are expected to drop, but not to the 1935-39 levels. There is no indication of a sharp decline in prices such as happened shortly after World War I. Dairy producers should keep a close watch on the balance between production and consumption of dairy products, and keep herds operating as efficiently as possible.

Demands for pork are quite strong, but will meet with stiff competition from veal, beef and poultry. Production of hogs should be based on the most efficient use of feed, labor and equipment. Beef prices may undergo some changes, with the spread between high and lower grades becoming greater.

Looking at the poultry industry egg producers will work on a more narrow margin this year than in 1945. But there should be some profits in good producing flocks.

The shift to peacetime production may not be as sudden or as swift as in industry, but farmers will have to face the fact that these adjustments are ahead and must be expected and properly planned.

If a large cheddar or Swiss cheese has been purchased for use in the home, it should be kept under refrigeration below 0 degrees Fahrenheit.

Over 700 Students Begin New Term At Westminster College

Ratio Of Women To Men Drops To Two-To-One As 150 Ex-G.Is Enroll

NEW WIMINGTON, Feb. 1.—Second semester at Westminster College began today flavored by a pre-war atmosphere.

Over 700 students are attending classes, the largest number since pre-war years. The expansion resulted from the enrollment of some 150 discharged servicemen, almost half of these being former students. The 5 to 1 ration of women and men students has dropped to 2 to 1 with the registration of ex-GI's.

The increased enrollment has brought the college many problems, chief of which is the acute housing situation. Through the cooperation of women students the shortage has been eased. College Hall and the fraternity houses are once again property of the men. The coeds have doubled up to make room for the freshman girls who had to move.

Many new classes and new sections in various courses were added at the registration of new students yesterday to take care of everybody.

The dining halls in the dormitories are filled to capacity. Food is being served in cafeteria style at Browne Hall for freshman and new students.

Doctor At 86 Says He's Not Retiring

ASPINWALL, Feb. 1.—(INS)—"I'm going to keep on practicing medicine until my toes turn up and they plant me under the daisies."

With that philosophy, Dr. William N. Marshall, 86, recently chalked up 62 years of medical work which he says is "easy because all I do is ride around."

His wit and devotion to medicine—his "special privilege"—have endeared him to Aspinwall residents where he has soothed more stomachs and patted more brows "than you can shake a stick at" and where he has delivered more than 1600 babies.

Westminster Prof Wins Recognition

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 1.—Miss Zelma Whittenberg, assistant professor of education and psychology at Westminster college, has been listed in the current edition of "Who's Who in American Education."

Miss Whittenberg came to Westminster in 1944 after serving as acting head of the education department at McMurry college in Abilene, Tex. She received her B.A. degree from East Texas State Teachers college and M.A. from Hardin-Simmons, Tex. She is working on her doctor's degree at Columbia and Texas universities.

Salvation Army Young Group Has Tournaments Again

Resuming the dart contests so popular last year, the Salvation Army's youth group which meets Wednesday evening this year had two teams of 12 each, captained by Wayne Fennell and Lois Eckley, respectively.

The teams are named the "Crusaders" and the "Torchbearers", with the Torchbearers in the lead so far, according to Captain Thelma Dundon, head of the local headquarters on Jefferson street. In the Bible quiz contest which the group is also having, Wayne Fennell is in the lead.

Sunday school attendance at the Salvation Army's headquarters has been over 90 percent of the enrollment during the entire month of January, setting a record which the corps is going to try to match or beat during February.

Control Of Cattle Mange Is Sought

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(INS)—A campaign to control cattle mange in dairy herds has been launched by the New York state department of agriculture and markets.

Dr. Ivan G. Howe, director of the bureau of animal industry, says that "this serious winter diseases involves a large economic loss to the dairy industry.

He adds the disease is spread mostly by "direct contact although the parasite can be transferred on curry combs or brushes... or anything else which touches the animal."

NEW MINE OPERATORS

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Three western Pennsylvania business men today became the new operators of the Shawmut Mining company.

Attorney Charles Denby and W. J. Stiteler, Jr., a Pittsburgh coal dealer, and John A. Robertshaw, Greensburg industrialist, received the federal court's approval to lease the properties for seven years with an option to purchase in three years for a million dollars.

The new operators promised to improve the unsanitary conditions in Hollywood, Force and Byrnedale of which Dr. Elizabeth Hayes has long complained.

BUSINESS AT NEW LOW

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Stoppage in the steel and curtailment of production in other industries caused business in the Pittsburgh area to slump to a new season low, the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Pittsburgh today disclosed.

The general index for the week ending January 26 stood at 112 per cent. The preceding week was about 168.

Production in shipments of coal showed relatively moderate declines, although the stoppage at steel mills was throttling more and more coal output as the week advanced.

College Courses Fail In Purpose, PCW Head Charges

Abilities, Not Hours, Should Be Basis Of Students' Program Now

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—College graduates in the past 25 years have been poorly educated and the winning of a degree "has been mostly a matter of bookkeeping" it was charged today in Pittsburgh by Paul R. Anderson, president of the Pennsylvania College of Women.

Outlining a new curriculum for PCW, Anderson declared:

"Most educational programs have been based on the number of hours a student sits through a hit and miss group of courses, at the end of which he gets a degree."

Abilities, Attitudes

Under the new program at PCW, the educational process will begin with the abilities and attitudes an educated person should have. These will be used as a yardstick in developing an integrated program in which actual achievement takes first place, declared Anderson.

The male president of a woman's college added:

"This is education the hard way. It is much easier to let the student suffer from the illusion that he is educated after taking a cafeteria assortment of courses."

Concentrate, Observe

In preparation of its new program, the PCW faculty has decided upon 12 abilities most important to an educated person. They include the ability to concentrate, to observe carefully, to express oneself clearly and to seek information—to mention a few.

Anderson declared that, while the named abilities aren't new, PCW intends to focus its attention upon them "rather than upon the mechanical graduation requirements."

Two Most Important

According to Anderson, the most important abilities are:

1. Ability to make unbiased, objective judgments, based on knowledge.

2. Ability to live and cooperate with others.

Anderson added:

"The UNO and Congress could use the first named ability right now. And what about the CIO?"

The PCW president argued that colleges should help develop the essential abilities and attitudes needed in the world and that a great deal of conventional practices might well be discarded in favor of a direct approach to human problems.

Admonishes Soldiers To Uphold Country

BOSTON, Feb. 1.—(INS)—War veterans had an admonition today from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to "attack everything anti-American now with as much vigor as you attacked the Germans and the Japs during the war."

"It's up to you to forestall any recurrence of any type of foreignism. You have an investment in the U. S. and the Star-Spangled Banner means a lot more to you now."

WHY BE BAPTIZED?

Nearly all religious organizations practice baptism of some kind in some mode as men speak. Still they are far from agreeing as to what baptism is for or how it is accomplished. We can only answer these questions by studying God's word and accepting what it says. Your opinions are as good as mine, and mine are as good as yours, but both are worthless unless they correspond to the teaching of the Bible.

Baptism is a burial in water, Acts 10:47, Rom. 6:3-5, Col. 2:12, and was first preached by John the Baptist, Matt. 3:1-2, and was unto repentance, Matt. 3:11. Jesus was baptized by John and went up straight way out of the water, Matt. 3:16, to fulfill all righteousness, Matt. 3:15.

Jesus told Nicodemus in Jno. 3:5 "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the Kingdom of God". If Jesus didn't refer to baptism I have no idea what he meant. Jesus commanded his apostles to preach the gospel to every creature. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved", Mark 16:15-16. Thus baptism is essential to salvation. Baptism is for the remission of sins, Acts 2:38-22:16, 1 Pet. 3:21. We are baptized into the body, the church, 1 Cor. 12:13. In every act of conversion on record in God's word the concluding step was baptism.

Application For Airplane Service To City Is Filed

All-American Aviation, Inc., Seeks Permission To Provide Service Here

Application for permission to serve New Castle with air mail pick-up, air express and ultimate passenger feeder service to main line airways has been filed by All-American Aviation, Inc., of Wilmington, Del., Jacob C. Wachtman, executive vice president of the Greater New Castle Association announced today. The request is being heard in Philadelphia before the Middle Atlantic sessions of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Application for permission to serve New Castle with air mail pick-up, air express and an ultimate passenger feeder service to main line airways has been filed by All-American Aviation, Incorporated, Wilmington, Del. The request is under hearing at Philadelphia before the Middle Atlantic session of the Civil Aeronautics Board.

GNCA To Aid

Active prosecution of the request to assure inauguration of air service to the New Castle and Ellwood Communities will be carried on by the Greater New Castle Association, Mr. Wachtman said this morning in announcing the proposed service by All-American. Efforts to obtain service will not be confined to the All-American enterprise, Wachtman said.

Wachtman returned last night from a trip including Washington, D. C., Wilmington, Del., Philadelphia and Harrisburg, which included several objectives. There appears to be no reason why airmail pick-up and air express service cannot be established promptly, once the approval of the Board has been obtined. It is the prolonged hearing and the need for extensive and exhaustive data filed in brief form that stands in the way at present.

Holdup Victims Seek To Identify Suspects Held

Victims of armed holdups last fall in Bessemer, New Castle and Mercer County today were in Youngstown for the purpose of seeing if three men captured recently in a robbery at East Liverpool were the men who burglarized places which they either owned or in which they worked. According to state police the trio confessed at East Liverpool to the thefts.

The Bessemer A. & P. store was robbed of $600 and the Morris Kantz store, East Long avenue, here, was robbed of about $600, in December. The other robberies reportedly occurred also last fall.

The men gave the names of Joe Cerina, Joseph Bova and Joseph Powers and residence as Ohio, according to the reported confessions obtained by the Pennsylvania state police substation.

Conference-Rally Is Well Attended

Inspiring Messages Given At Sabbath School Conference In First U. P. Church

Splendid attendance greeted the conference-rally held at the First United Presbyterian church Thursday at the evening session and Rev. Norman J. Webster, director of Young People's work of the Pennsylvania State School association, brought an inspiring message on the theme, "Youth at the Cross Roads of Life — Forward With Christ".

The opening devotional service was in charge of Rev. O. W. Hurst, assisted by Young People, and two solos were rendered by David W. Rees, chorister of the conference-rally church, with Mrs. Sophia Dunlap as organist.

Interesting Report

Mrs. Margaret S. Cassidy gave an interesting report of the work done by the Young People's Council of the Slippery Rock district. Miss Anna Dodds gave a report on timely temperance activities that might be promoted during the coming year.

Rev. F. A. Crooks offered a resolution condemning the liquor advertising that is run in many magazines, the beer advertising over the radio, and all the insidious inroads that are being made in this manner to the morals of the youth of our country who will be our citizens of tomorrow. This resolution was unanimously passed.

Free Scholarship

It was stated that a free scholarship to Camp Kanesatake was being given by the state association, and the young person to receive it was left to Mrs. H. F. Barber, the county Young's People's supt.

Recognition was given to the ladies of the conference-rally church, under the leadership of Mrs. Fred W. Sontum, for the splendid meal served to the delegates, as well as to all who had assisted in making the event a success.

The conference-rally came to a close with a "friendship circle" in charge of Rev. C. R. Thayer.

Pickets Block Return To Work

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 — (INS) — A veteran-sponsored back to work parade at a strike-bound plant of the General Motors Corporation at suburban La Grange, Ill., met with failure today when 2,000 CIO pickets blocked entrances to the factory.

Two automobiles were turned over in a brief flareup of violence. Police prevented the demonstration from developing into a melee.

The plant, known as the McCook electro-motive division of General Motors, has been closed by a strike of CIO farm equipment workers.

The Union Jack was so called because it was a union of the emblems of Great Britain and Ireland. A jack is a small flag used as a signal, hoisted on a jack staff at the bow of a vessel.

When buttons are sewed on heavy garments, it is best to place a pin across the face of the button and sew each loop over it, then wind the thread a few times between button and material and fasten the end.

Teacher Tenure Act Revisions Meet Approval

HARRISBURG, Feb. 1.—(INS)—The state school commission reported today that 12 of 20 proposed revisions to the teacher tenure act, including a reduction of the retiring age, were favored by fourth class school district officials.

A survey of 200 school boards indicated that directors desired a greater voice in appointments, dismissals and promotions of teachers, according to Executive Director Paul H. Wueller.

"The sample of ideas was taken from the fourth class districts because they feel the effects of the tenure act more keenly than other districts," Wueller explained. "They contain approximately 22,800 of the 61,000 teachers in the state and therefore are qualified to represent a cross-section of thought on the subject."

Retirement Proposal

The most controversial recommendation, a proposal to retire instructors after 25 years of service, was approved by 85 per cent of the directors, Wueller disclosed. All suggestions were made by the State Education and Pennsylvania School Directors' associations.

Other approved recommendations would permit school board to dismiss teachers without hearings and require nongraduate instructors to get six college credits a year until a degree was earned. Teachers could be dismissed for insubordination upon the joint action of school boards and superintendents.

The discharge of women for refusing to take a leave when pregnant received a stamp of approval as well as a provision permitting boards to fire instructors upon a two-thirds vote of directors.

Require Probation

Requiring a probation period of three years in promotions was favored by 87 per cent of the boards queried, Wueller reportde.

The majority recommended limiting probation period requirements to districts and pro rating increments on a preparation-rating basis, he added.

Six of the proposals were rejected while two others were tabled, according to Wueller.

A proposal to validate teaching certificates for five years was disapproved. Also rejected were suggestions to authorize superintendents, to nominate teachers, tenure for superintendents, dismiss married women teachers, repeal of the tenure act and limit tenure to the position at which it was acquired. Directors were undecided about limiting tenure to districts and the suspension of married women whose husbands can support them.

Reports from school boards in all districts will be scanned before legislation is drafted for presentation to the general assembly during its 1947 session, Wueller said.

Sgt. John Patton Jr. Leaves Army Duties

Receiving his honorable discharge from the army Thursday, at Deshon General hospital in Butler, Sgt. John W. Patton, Jr., of 2 East Moody avenue, has been released to civilian activity again, terminating three and a half years military duties.

The army chose to send Sgt. Patton to the European theater of operations, where he served with General Patton's Third Army, seeing action in Belgium, France, Luxemberg and Germany.

Awards including the ETO ribbon, Good Conduct medal, E. A. M. E. ribbon, the Victory medal, American Service ribbon and the Purple Heart were received by the Moody avenue veteran during his army career.

He is the husband of Mrs. Betty Patton, Moody avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. John Patton, Sr., 812 North Mercer street.

New 'Robert E. Lee' Coming Around Bend

QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 1.—(INS)—The "Robert E. Lee" son again will be coming around the bend and pulling up to the old plantation landing.

But the towering white decks with the white fretwork will be gone. The new steamers will be modern streamlined river boats with staterooms to accomodate 700 passengers each.

W. K. Greenebaum, Great Lakes mariner, said that plans for such ships have been drawn, and builders are ready to construct two or more modern steamers to ply the Mississipp, Ohio and Tennessee rivers on pleasure cruises, modeled after those conducted on the Great Lakes.

Twenty-six Union High school students had grades good enough to merit them places on the school's honor roll for the third six weeks period, announced School Principal Milton Patterson today.

The four seniors on the list are: Lorene Brown, Stella Plonka, Margery Rohrer and Nancy Spellick. Six junior honor students are: Paul Anderson, Helen Borek, Mary Carbone, Norene Coates, Eleanor Jones and Dolores May, while the two sophomores who topped their class are Robert Korby and Maxine Tackitt.

Outnumbering all the other classes, the freshmen had fourteen honor students, with their list including: Angeline Ambrosio, Jane Bailey, Ralph Brown, James Doyle, Louis Grell, Anna Mel Johnson, Melvin Kauffman, Barbara McFadden, Robert Miller, Edward Nevotne, Bill Rattvasky, Velma Sloan, Lois Straitwell and Robert Van Meter.

New Castle High Plays Farrell Here Tonight

Cochrane-Servo Battle Tonight

Bill Corum Hopes Fight Tonight Is Better Than Wright-Firpo Recent Dance

By BILL CORUM
(International News Service Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—There was a time in this business when a fellow who wrote about a boxing match might reasonably feel that he was helping to build up the gate. That wasn't his primary reason for writing about a coming match. Or shouldn't have been. The reason was that there were readers who were interested in the bout; wantd to know about it in advance.

Still, any advance story about the fight came under the general heading of ballyhood and was considered a break for the promoter.

Wright Not Right

Those days probably are not gone forever. But they are gone for the time being. A fight promoter who matched the Cherry sisters for a bout these days, or nights, might still have to call out the police to keep the customers from getting killed in the rush.

Last Friday night at the St. Nicholas Arena, Chalky Wright and Pedro Firpo put on what must have come close to being the all-time worst main event in history. It was horrible and to call it no worse than horrible is to treat it with a generosity that it didn't deserve.

Cochrane Vs Servo

I never have been as interested in Chalky Wright's age as some. But however old the former featherweight champion may be, he is much too old to be involved in such didoes as this so-called contest.

Therefore, while champion Freddie Cochrane and challenger Marty Servo are considered by the majority of boxing fans as no more than a couple of Ray Robinson's good men Friday in the welterweight division, it already is established that their meeting in M. S. Garden tonight will be a highly successful festive and financial occasion.

Sutherland Coached All-Stars Defeated

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Let's hope that the Eleventh Airborne Division's 18-0 defeat of the Dr. Jock Sutherland coached Honolulu All-Stars, in Tokyo, is no indication of the Pittsburgh Steelers' 1946 activities.

The signing of Sutherland as the Steelers' head coach boosted the Rooney-Bell aggregate's chances a hundredfold for a successful season. And you can't blame Jock for that defeat in Japan—he had only a short time to work with his men and those 11th "angels" are tough babies.

Brown At Third Frisch Contends

Pirate Manager Thinks Highly Of Player Recently Acquired From Cards

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Jimmy Brown, the Pittsburgh Pirates newest addition and former St. Louis Cardinal flashy infielder, is probably the most talked about man in Bucco circles. With the return of his signed contract to General Manager Ray Kennedy, Brown expressed the utmost pleasure in joining Frankie Frisch and his boys.

Brown At Third

Brown promises to be one of the Pirate mainstays in the 1946 pennant race. His letter said:

"I can assure you that at all times I'll be in the best condition possible. Here in Orlando, I am getting in much work so when spring training starts I'll be ready. I am assisting Joe Stripp in his baseball school."

Frisch, who thinks very highly of Jimmy's skill, is reportedly grooming the versatille infielder for the hot-corner.

West Pittsburg Planning Team

Elect Ralph Fundoots As Manager, Frances Cochran To Be Secretary

West Pittsburg will return to the baseball wars this coming summer with the popular "Blackie" Fundoots, aging veteran former star outfielder, as manager, it was decided Wednesday at a meeting in the Diaz club. Francis Cochran has been named as club secretary.

West Pittsburg is planning to enter a strong contender in the Lawrence county baseball league, Fundoots revealed today. The club will hold another meeting Wednesday, February 6, at the Diaz club at 7 o'clock to discuss further the plans for a ball club. All persons in West Pittsburg interested in helping out with the team are invited to attend the meeting.

Titans Defeat Olmsted Quintet By Score 58 To 25

Coach Grover Washabaugh Tries Out Four Different Combinations Thursday

JAY COCHRAN IN FINAL GAME

By News Staff Writer

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 1.—Last night was 'tryout night for Coach Grover Washabaugh and his Westminster Titans basketball team, incidentally they defeated Olmsted Field quintet 58 to 25 in their first outing since going down before the Pitt Panthers at Farrell.

Having taken time out for semester tests, etc., the Titans also picked up three former G. I. Joes, Stan "Fish" Wasik, Bill McLhinney and Dick Jones, none of the boys being exactly newcomers to Westminster having played on Titan teams before entering the service.

Things Will Be Different

Washabaugh used the comparatively easy ball game to try out various combinations, starting a new team at the start of each period. Wasik, McIhinney and Jones are going to fit in nicely judging from the way they have picked up their basketball ability. Jones was the only man of the newcomers to break the nets for points, but both Wasik and McLhinny looked good working the floor.

Grover really has them three-deep now to face Pitt, Akron and Geneva before the season ends. The watchword now is "Look out for Westminster."

Olmsted Stymied

The Olmsted Field quintet was stymied right off the bat, not having a man that reached six feet, and had a hard time getting the ball off the bankboards. Wihtersty from Sharon was the best in the visitors lineup, getting 10 points to tie Freddy "Bull" Paine of the Titans who had 10 to lead his team.

Chester "Slats" Dembinski had nine points in the short while he played. Don "Streak" Heddleston had eight points, and Wagner seven. Jay Cochran, sensational freshman, playing his final game before leaving for army service, tried hard to break into the high scoring column, getting three points but having hard luck with several nice shots; they just wouldn't drop. All of the Titan regulars played their customary great ball.

Meet Gannon Monday

Westminster led 17 to 7 at the first period, 26 to 13 at halftime and 48 to 20 at the end of the third period.

Monday night Westminster meets Gannon college from the Erie district at the Westminster gym. Gannon recently lost a tough one to the Bowling Green quintet and figure to give the Titans a real tussle.

Westminster controlled the ball for the final four minutes of the game in as sweet a freezing exhibition as seen in some time. This will come in handy in the tough battles ahead. The Olmsted players just looked on in amazement.

JANUARY issue of the Pennsylvania Game News contains a story "Julia Takes Over" by N. R. Casillo, local outdoorsman and educator. It is illustrated by Jacob Bates Abbott. The yarn has such familiar characters as Bill Klee, Art Alexander, Burr Rogers and Bob Stewart. The locale is the Shenango river between Harbor bridge and the water works. . . . Chicago's entry in the new All-America football conference will be known as the Rockets. . . . Max Minor, Cabokia, Tex., track star at West Point won three events there in the recent relays.

Although the next pugilistic carnival is yet 18 days away ringside reservations are now being made. . . . Al Lopatka, St. Louis Cards' southpaw, is a Chicago hotel clerk during winter months. . . . Chicago claims that 19,749 fans watched the Black Hawks and Gotham Rangers hockey there recently and believes it the largest hockey crowd yet to see a game. . . . San Francisco is building an ice skating rink to accommodate 17,000. . . . The local rink, Mahoning avenue, can accommodate 1,000. . . . John Haven, mayor, sparked mayor's recreation committee moves.

'Tis about time for Canco Kid Guido to start his protege Les Leasure back into training. . . . A rival coach who never has been too friendly with Luke Johnson of the Chi-Bears told him at a National Football League session in New York that he considered him the nation's top expert in the T formation which is a great compliment coming from a not too friendly coach. . . . While Old Time sportsmen are dining at Sylvan Heights February 7, the thoughts of another, O. H. P. Green, who is far away (in California) will be centered here, likewise those of Charlie Mayne who is sojourning in Florida.

Cowden Moore, New Wilmington road district, who was injured in a bus crash at Canonsburg, was one of the best marathoners this city has had. He ran in an event held here in 1909. . . . Duke O'Hara, McKeesport, handled two fighters who won bouts recently at Canonsburg. Eddie Polo decisioned Claude Mayberry and Charlie Robinson outpointed John Hudson of Pittsburgh. Both winners boxed here. . . . Anytime one reads of a boxer getting a couple of hundred thousand for a fistic fracas, laugh. They may get it but cannot keep it. There are managerial cuts, training expenses and entertainment fees.

Fair Or Foul

(International News Service Sports Editor)

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—From Madrid and Berlin comes word that boxing comebacks may be attempted by the two men who felt—or were be-numbed—by the two most damaging single punches ever thrown by Joe Louis.

The fantastic notion that they still can get another whack at some lush gate receipts is buzzing around in the bonnets of Paulino Uzcudun and Max Schmeling.

Nothing that ever fell near these two while Europe was afire ever rocked them like Louis did. Both went to the cleaners.

All Washed Up

But like nearly all fighters who are washed up and, presumably in these cases in need of money, they cling to the notion that they can whip somebody—or get that scratch even if they lose. These two put together and armed with hatchets couldn't whip a fourth rate bum in a telephone booth.

Nevertheless Paulino proposes to return to the United States soon and attempt to put on for charity a tournament with other old fighters. If any of them can still get his hands up as high as his chin he would get a real money shot. That's what Paulino says.

He now is 46 years old and reportedly has grown new tusks in place of the one Louis knocked into the mezzanine in 1935.

Schmeling in Hamburg

Schmeling is living in what used to be Hamburg, and working out lightly every day with skipping rope and along the country roads.

He hasn't been feeling so well since 1941 when he parachuted into Crete with German troops and woundup with a bad knee and a case of typhoid—the combined effect of which is about equivalent to that Louis punch which broke his back in 1938.

Paulino Insists

If Paulino visits us again, as he strenuously insists he will, his keeper will be a rich olive oil man named Felix Sanchez Alvarez.

Paulino doesn't plan to get anybody hurt. He would make the charity bout six or eight rounds with training gloves.

Perhaps one of them would be able to stand up long enough to get a real, bona fide, authoritative smack in the kisser in a real fight.

Schmeling still is in the managerial care of Max Machon, who will be remembered as the man who muscled Joe Jacobs out of Schmeling's contract.

Machon said in Berlin today that Schmeling hasn't fought since he knocked out Adolph Heuser in 1938 after receiving his lumps from Louis, but he's willing. So is Machon for the customary cut. Schmeling is 40 years old, but hopeful of whacking out a few of the German stumble-bums. He has been on some exhibition tours, bad leg and all.

Were Good Once

These two old guys will be remembered in this country as pretty good fighters. Paulino, known in that name-coining era as the "Basque Woodchopper" was never off his feet until Louis nailed him in the fourth round.

He stumbled backward and sat down on the other side of the ring with blood boiling from his cut mouth as though he had been hit by a run-away truck. He was still wobbling around a half hour later in his dressing room.

Louis knocked Schmeling down with the first good punch of the fight and when Schmeling got up, took hold of the top rope and partly turned his back. Louis knocked him into Polyclinic hospital with a scrambled spine.

If those weren't the champion's two toughest punches they at least helped to fill this column.

Dahlgren Signs Pirate Contract

Clever First Baseman Signs For 1946 Season, Is One Of Best Fielders In Loop

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Ellsworth (Babe) Dahlgren, first base star, has signed his 1946 contract, it was announced today by the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The signing of Babe gave the Smokey City club their second contract return of Bucs this week. Previously, Elwin (Preacher) Roe southpaw hurler, put his okay on the dotted line, after getting some contract alterations.

Dahlgren's play at the initial base gave him an average of .996, and he took part in 115 double plays. His average at the bat was .250.

Southpaw Roe led the league last season with 140 strikeouts and an earned run average of 28.7. He was credited with 14 victories in 27 games.

'Lefty' Minner With Brooklyn

Dodgers Sign Up Ex-Serviceman Pitching Ace, Leaves For South Next Week

NEW WILMINGTON, Feb. 1.—M-Sgt. Paul "Lefty" Minner, discharged from the service this week, plans to resume his baseball career as the property of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

"Lefty," well-known local athlete will leave next week with his wife for Sanford, Fla., where he will work out with the Montreal club of the International league. The 21-year-old pitching ace will be transferred to Daytona Beach after a few weeks to train with the Brooklyn Dodgers who own the Montreal club.

Has Fine Record

Minner was impressive while hurling for the Knoxville, Tenn., team before entering the service and he was recommended for a major league tryout by the Knoxville manager. While in the service Minner owned a splendid record pitching for the New Cumberland and Fort Belvoir, Va., teams.

"Lefty" graduated from New Wilmington high school, leading the Greyhounds to several section championships. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Minner of New Wilmington.

St. Vincent's To Resume Grid Sport

After Three-Year Layoff Due To War, Bearcats Will Again Prowl Grids

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 1.—(INS)—St. Vincent's college at Latrobe has added its name to the list of western Pennsylvania schools to resume intercollegiate gridiron competition next fall.

Following the return of ex-servicemen in large numbers to the college, the athletic board voted to let its Bearcats prowl once again over district stadiums' sods after a three-year lay-off.

Many Stars Returning

Many former St. Vincent pigskin stars will represent the school in its 1946 attempt to bring the men from Latrobe back into the national sports spotlight. However, it is reported that the athletic council does not expect their new edition of Bearcats to take top honors next fall, but they hope to field a squad representative of the "Green and Gold" which in the past has won state and nationwide renown.

Selection of a coach as yet remains undetermined. Former Coach Gene Edwards is now in industry and probably will not be on hand to guide the 'Cats.

A prospective schedule is now being worked out by the athletic board, which expects to announce the 1946 opponents soon.

Church League Games Tonight

Three more games will be played in the New Castle church league at the "Y" tonight. The first game starts at 7:30 o'clock and will have the Baptists battling the St. Paul's Lutherans, the latter a much improved team.

The second game will find the First Presbyterians playing the Second U. P. in the feature attraction, and in the third game the Wampum Presbyterians will tangle with Croton.

Bolden Stops Riley's Streak

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—(INS)—Nate Bolden, Chicago negro light heavyweight, was credited today with stopping the eight-fight winning streak here of Odell Riley, Detroit, by copping a split decision in ten rounds last night.

Bolden rallied late to win the referee's and a judge's nod. One judge voted a draw.

Plaingrove High Tops Harrisville

"Grovers" Win Butler County Loop Fray By 37-36 Score; Stevenson Stars

Coach Chalmers Studebaker's Plaingrove high school cage quintet turned back the Harrisville high team in a North Butler County league contest at the Plaingrove gym Wednesday night, 37-36.

The tilt was a furious one with both quints battling evenly to the last whistle. Plaingrove managed a 19-14 lead at the halfway mark, but the Harrisville five came dangerously close to beating them in the third canto when they ran the count to 29-28 in favor of the "Grovers". Both teams added eight points in the final frame.

Stevenson High

For the winners, Stevenson, a fine center, was the high man, scoring 19 points. Smith of the Harrisville machine, with 15 points, paced his team.

In a basketball tilt at the Catholic Center last night the St. Mary's "Big Five" trounced the East Brook Boosters by a 45-33 score. Starring for the Saint were Zubkowsky and Janacone, while Jameson was the best for the losers. The St. Mary's reserves topped the Shop Five in the prelim, 36-25.

Hope To Avenge Earlier Defeat

New Castle Faces Hard Bitten Steelers Tonight At Washington Gym

PRELIMINARY GAME STARTS AT 7 P. M.

Hoping to avenge a 44 to 23 defeat handed them by the Farrell High Steelers at Farrell on the night of January 8, the New Castle High passers will try hard to upset the hard-bitten Tudor Lewis coached machine this evening in their meeting at Washington High gym. The preliminary game between the reserve teams starts at 7 o'clock.

Farrell High for a time looked like the business in Section Three after dumping Ambridge at Ambridge in the third game, incidentally this is the only game that the Ambridge team has lost, but of late Farrell has lost to Beaver Falls and Sharon and are now mathematically out of the picture.

Too Many Defeats

New Castle is definitely out of the race now, with six reverses after whipping Beaver Falls in the third game, and defeating New Brighton also, but losses to Ambridge, Farrell, Sharon, Ellwood and Aliquippa have put them out.

The Castles hope to climb back a little in the section prestige by trimming the Steelers tonight, and may do it, if they play the type of basketball they are capable of. New Castle has lost a few tough ones by falling to score enough points in the first two periods, and having too long a race in the last two periods to catch up.

New Combinations

Coach Phil Bridenbaugh will probably try a few new combinations tonight. The loss of Stack and Walls has hurt New Castle somewhat.

At Ambridge Tuesday Bridenbaugh started Black and Eakin at the forwards, Whittaker at center, and Koszela and Damaskon at the guards. This outfit clicked very nicely. In all probability a number of reserves will see action tonight. Gribble, Stokes, Spears, Grybowski and Rea will likely get in the contest at times. New Castle is starting to build for next year.

DICK METZ LEADS

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 1.—(INS)—Dick Metz of Arkansas City, Kan., was out in front with a four-under-par 66 today as the $7500 Tucson open golf tournament went into its second round.

Close behind him were 18 other players who cracked the El Rio course's par 70 during yesterday's first 18 holes.

Public Liability Insurance to indemnify the City of New Castle against all damage which the City may have to pay for or on account of injuries suffered by any person or persons because of the failure or neglect of the City of New Castle to perform any duty which it owes to the public in regard to any streets, parks, buildings, lands, public places or other property (except automobiles) owned by or under the control of the said City.

Second: Public Liability Insurance to indemnify the City of New Castle against all damage which the City may have to pay for or on account of injuries suffered by any person or persons because of the failure or neglect of the City of New Castle to perform any duty which it owes to the public in regard to any automobile, motor vehicle, or other vehicle owned by or under the control of the said City.

Bids may be submitted and proposals made for the furnishing of each of the said kinds of public Liability Insurance, either to persons or property or for both, or for furnishing of both kinds of Public Liability Insurance against loss, either to persons or property or for both. All policies of insurance to be furnished must be on standard forms approved by the Department of Insurance of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and those insuring against personal injuries shall be for the limits of Ten and Twenty-five Thousand Dollars, and those for property damage shall be for damages to the amount of Five Thousand Dollars.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a specimen copy of the proposed policy, and when a contract is let, the policy furnished must comply exactly and precisely with the specimen accompanying the bid.

The Council reserves the right to reject any or all bids and in determining what proposals shall be accepted if any, the Council shall consider the rate of premium, the form of policy, the coverage of the policy, and all other things in the proposals, which may affect the welfare of the said City. Proposals may be made for insurance for one, two or three years, and in awarding any contract, the Council may determine the length of time for which the policies proposed shall be accepted according to the judgment of the Council as to what is the lowest and best bid for insurance of the City.
